

AMERICAN HENLEY MAY 26; CHILDS CUP APR. 28

BOTH REGATTAS SET FOR PHILADELPHIA

Rowing Association Arranges Dates to Avoid Conflict in Spring.

PROGRAM NOT COMPLETE

Early Opening of Season Will Make Colleges Rush Crew Training.

By SAMUEL J. BROOKMAN.

There was a concerted effort on the part of the delegates to the annual meeting of the American Rowing Association at the Harvard Club yesterday to draw up a variety crew schedule for next spring that will see date conflicts reduced to a minimum. The association frowned on the practice of colleges arranging conflicting regattas. The delegates felt the time had arrived for all hands to work together to avoid scrambling of dates, and it was with that idea foremost that a tentative schedule was drawn up.

The complete list is not ready for publication, but the dates for the annual American Henley and the Childs cup were announced as May 26 and April 28, respectively. Both these events will be rowed on the Schuylkill at Philadelphia.

The Childs cup date is of especial interest because it is just two weeks earlier than the usual day for this three cornered regatta, in which Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania are the contestants. It was held on May 13 on Lake Carnegie, Princeton, last spring and the second Saturday in May the year before. No doubt the April date for the Childs Cup race next spring was prompted by a desire to avoid the congestion of May regattas; it was one of the steps in the direction of a more evenly distributed schedule.

Will Rush Crew Development.

Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania coaches will have to rush the development of their crews as they never did before to have the oarsmen rowing in satisfactory form by the day of the Childs cup event. Every body concerned will be praying for an early spring. Pennsylvania, which usually finds it possible to start outdoor practice a week or two ahead of the rival colleges, will have whatever advantage there may be in the early date.

The April Childs cup date may mean a shift in the date for the annual Penn-Yale regatta. Yale has expressed dissatisfaction with an early April date for a dual regatta and the change in the Childs cup event may permit a May date for the dual race between the varieties and junior varieties of the Elis and Quakers. The Childs cup race at Princeton, by the way, proved to be one of the best contested of the season last spring. After a sensational tussle the Tiger crew beat the Columbia eight by a scant margin of a foot, with Penn third.

The Henley date, May 26, is the usual one—the last Saturday in May. There was considerable talk at the meeting of the advisability of enlarging the Henley regatta into a three day affair in which every amateur club and every college actively engaged in the sport would be asked to compete. The delegates discussed the project enthusiastically, but felt that the time was not yet ripe for a May regatta of the size proposed. They considered it advisable to acquire everybody with the plan first, to feel the pulse of the amateur and college rowing authorities rather than launch a three day event without sufficient assurance of necessary support. It was considered entirely possible that by 1924 the three day Henley would be a fact.

Some of Races in View.

Besides the Childs cup event, the variety regatta, dual and three cornered that are likely to be held in the East next spring will include Yale-Penn, Yale-Princeton-Cornell, Penn-Harvard, Navy-Syracuse, Navy-Harvard-Princeton, Columbia-Yale, Columbia-M. I. T., Harvard-Cornell, Harvard-M. I. T., Yale-Harvard, as well as the annual intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson.

The American Rowing Association yesterday selected Thomas B. Reath of Pennsylvania, chairman; William E. Curtis of Yale, vice-chairman; Rudolph Rauch of Princeton, treasurer; and John Arthur Brown of Pennsylvania, secretary. Others present at the meeting were Dr. J. Duncan Spaulding, the Princeton rowing coach; Henry B. Thompson of Princeton; Raymond Barry, graduate manager of athletics at Cornell; H. Thurston of Syracuse; Morton G. Bogue, chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association; John Goetichius of Yale; Dr. R. Heber Howe of Cornell; and Edward and Sheridan Logan of Harvard and Commander Rockwell of the navy.

ARMISTICE DAY.

Heroes of yesterday, where are you today? Back on the jobs you had ere you went away; Out where the busy world lacks the time to grieve, Seeking work a man can do, with an empty sleeve; Still in the hospitals, weary, sick of soul, Till Death, who passed you by, comes to make you whole; Resting in narrow beds, where the women weep, Spreading flowers over you, as you lie asleep. Rally your ranks again, all who journeyed back; Polish the gleaming steel, fasten on the pack; March past the watching crowds, and they will cheer As when you went away—one day a year.

The first game ever played by Princeton and Harvard under Rugby rules was at Cambridge, on April 28, 1877. It was won by the Crimson. In this game there were fifteen players on a side. The first game in which sides consisted of two elevens was contested at the Polo Grounds on November 18, 1882, and the Tigers were victorious. It was not until November 18, 1882, that the two rivals met under anything approaching the modern rules. There was considerable controversy as to the scoring rules and Princeton claimed a tie, but the referee, Mr. Watson of Yale, awarded the game to the Crimson. It really was this game which led to the system of scoring by points. In the first battle under the point system, played in 1883, Alex Moffat kicked four goals from the field and Princeton won by a score of 28 to 7. In this game Harvard used the double pass, so it may be seen that even at that time the Crimson attack was based somewhat on deception. The only trouble was that it didn't deceive in the manner which it does since being perfected by Percy Haughton.

There probably never was a more skillful kicker than Alex Moffat. We are told that he could kick equally well with either foot, whereas to-day we do not know of a man who can kick equally well with either hand, and it is hard to find a halfback who can run equally well around either end.

President Charles Ebbetts of the Brooklyn Baseball Club is going to Europe. It is doubtful whether he will find any baseball players over there, but he may come back with a mascot.

Neither do we see why he should go over in search of war relics. He has had some relics in his employ for some time.

The Yankees are said to be looking for a couple of left handed pitchers. They always have had a good supply of left handed thinkers.

In this world everybody is anxious to have you tell the truth, so long as you don't tell it about them.

Some players who endeavor to pass the piskin really are better fitted for jobs passing the pork.

The Washington and Jefferson-Lafayette game drew over 31,000 paid admissions at the Polo Grounds. We doubt whether there are 1,000 graduates of the two institutions in New York. All of which goes to show that in these days a crowd will really turn out for a good football game.

A New York stoker knocked out the heavyweight champion of Germany. Another triumph for Old King Coal!

WINTER SPORTS TO OPEN NEXT OLYMPICS

Busy Indoor Tennis Season Ahead for Heights Casino

Heights Casino, which is to open its indoor tennis season next Tuesday with an exhibition match between the two prominent players will be engaged, has just completed substantial improvements in its tennis and squash tennis courts. A balcony that will seat several hundred has been erected along one length of the court wall on the main floor, while on the squash floor two of the four courts have been enlarged and refinished to conform with regulations of the International Tennis Federation. The new balcony also has been made for a squash gallery.

The club is arranging a long program of tennis events for the indoor season, including dual meets with thirty of the rival local club teams and intercity contests with teams of Boston and possibly Philadelphia. The annual women's invitation event, which Mrs. Mollie Burstedt Malloy has won five times, will again be a feature.

Meadow Brook Cup Race.

The twenty-fourth annual race for the Meadow Brook cup will take place tomorrow at Jericho, L. I. Under the auspices of the Meadow Brook Steeplechase Association. Sixteen horses have been entered and twelve starters are expected. All will be ridden by amateurs over a course laid out on the country places of Middleton S. Burrell and H. S. Underhill. Two races are to be run on the flat by local horses after the cup race has been decided.

ANSWER TO THE PROBLEM OF FOURSOMES AND TWOSOMES.

F. J. E.: The foursome playing ahead of your twosome would have no right to take any time to look for a ball. In this case the twosome should have played through the foursome without an invitation to do so, as it is a breach of golf etiquette for their part not to ask the players behind to come through in case of a lost ball.

PROBLEM OF HITTING A CADDIE.

"While playing a round of golf the other day in a foursome, or in other words a four ball match, my ball hit one of the caddies. "As it happened to be my partner's caddie, the claim was made by our opponents that we lost the hole. "I claimed I was out of the contest and that my partner could not be penalized. Was I right?
